CARD OF THANKS

PORTER M. GILNES,

BRIGGS MONROE,
JOHN MONROE.

SOUTH WATERFORD.
Mrs. Eunice M. Glines.
Mrs. Eunice M. Glines, wife of Porter M. Glines, passed to the higher life Sunday morning, October 8. Mrs. Glines has been a subject of an incurable disease for forty-four years and a suffering invalid for most of those years. Her case has excited the greatest interest and concern of many excellent physicians and baffled their skill. But amid all her suffering she manifested a spirit of Christian resignation to the Lord's will.
She was a daughter of Merrick and Betsy (Brown) Monroe, a native of So. Waterford and at her death was 71 years, 9 months and 3 days old. A large assembly of relatives and sympathizing friends attended the funeral services at the late residence, which were solemnized by Rev. G. W. Sias. The interment was in the family lot in Elmvalle Cemetery. Mrs. Glines is survived by two brothers, John Monroe of Mechanic Falls, Briggs Monroe of Los Angeles, Cal., and an only sister, Mrs. Annie Walker of Mechanic Falls, who was a constant and loving companion and helper during her final period of sickness.

Ralph Willard came home last week and stayed a few days. He returned to Lewiston Sunday in his father's auto to Mechanic Falls, thence by electric car. He will complete his term in Commercial College next month, and come home for good and join his father in management of their extensive lumber and cooerage business.

John Monroe of Mechanic Falls is stopping with Porter Glines, his in-law, since the decease of Mrs. Glines, as companion and helper.

Isabella Given
Mrs. Isabella (Burgess) Given, widow of the late Fred A. Given of Portland, passed away October 12th, in the Maine General Hospital, where she had been operated upon for intestinal obstruction.
This was the second operation, and she could not rally from the shock.
Mrs. Given was the daughter of Henry Burgess of Elm Hill, and of the late Melvinia (Crocker) Burgess. She was born in Paris, December 12, 1863, therefore, 47 years, 10 months and 2 days at the time of death.

Her early life was passed in Paris until she married Fred A. Given, a violinist of note. Since then both travelled extensively wherever Mr. Given's profession led, but the vacation season was passed each summer at the home farm.
The remains were brought to Paris for burial Saturday and Rev. C. G. Miller conducted the committal service at Pine Grove cemetery. All arrangements were made by Leroy Spiller.

A father and sister of Paris and son Fred H. of Portland survive.

ings this fall on Wednesday, Oct. 11th.

pair, lay a new chimney, and put the followed by dancing as usual. Plans are made to serve one of the largest parties on record too.

After the business meeting a social hour followed, with refreshments of tea, salmon, pastries, hot biscuits, baked sweet apples and cream, and a variety of cakes and cookies.

Mrs. A. G. Lovejoy and Mrs. Elinor
Buck were the committee in charge.
Adjourned for two weeks to meet again at Club House. Mrs. Dinsmore and Mrs.
Una Jackson, committee.

Who May Get Left?

When Maine declared its wishes as to which party should serve it, there was a perfect stampede of candidates for the "Only Office" our postoffice. Everyone who has had or expected a circular or postal, has had his name put in some of the many anxious candidates. They seem to overlook the fact, both office seeker and patron, that the matter is not settled until after November 7 and then, whichever way it goes, there is no certainty as to whether there will be a change or not. Mr. Hughes being inclined to let well enough alone. Such a thing as Mr.
Wilson being elected is a possibility that seems to be overlooked.

It certainly would be good taste, also good judgement to wait before binding one's vote, until the results are known.
One would feel that time and friendship had been wasted in needless work, if we were obliged to endure for another four years, that which thousands of people still think is "the best ever" in spite of the Maine election.

His Bargain was Too Big Not long ago, James B. Frost, better known as "Jim", purchased a new 1917 Ford automobile. Sometime previous to this, in the early part of the summer, Mr.
Frost called at the E. N. Sweet Shoe Store to buy a pair of shoes.

He was shown what seemed to be an extraordinary bargain and although he didn't wish for a dress shoe, the ones shown were of a much clumsier, heavier style than he would have probably chosen.

Nevertheless, the trade was made, and the shoes were taken home, "Jim" thinking he had at last struck a real bargain.
All went well, until he discovered he would be obliged to invest in a pair of smaller boots in order to be able to operate the foot gear on his car.

He also needs a wider entrance to his garage, but will soon overcome this.

Amy B. Gould of Malden, Mass., who has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. F. P.
Morrill, has returned to her home where she will again take up the study of music.

The Main street crossings are being re-laid temporarily until road operations begin next spring. Albert Descoteau is doing the mason work. Joe King, Frank LaFrance and Victor Whitman are placing the flag stones.

courage them. By 11 A. M. a goodly

EAST DIXFIELD

Mrs. Susan Babb has suffered a paralytic shock. Mrs. Babb lived alone in this village. Monday morning she was supposed to be in her usual health, as she called up on the telephone one of her neighbors and talked with him, saying nothing but what she was all right.
Monday noon Mrs. Ella White went to the home of Mrs. Babb for a pail of water, when she found her in a partially unconscious condition. Medical aid was immediately called and all has been done that could be. A nurse, Mrs. Florence Smith Colledge is caring for her.

"Uncle" Simon Smith celebrated his 100th birthday Tuesday, October 17.

A letter recently received at this office was rather interesting to us. A party had sent the money for a small bill to the office by a female member of the household and she called at noon when the office was closed and forgot to call again. In closing the letter, the following post script appears, "I am afraid the Fall Fashions had something to do with causing her to forget to attend to my business."

YOUNG WOMEN
MAY AVOID PAIN

Need Only Trust to Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, says Mrs. Kurtzweg.

Buffalo, N. Y.—"My daughter, whose picture is herewith, was much troubled with pains in her back and sides every month and they would sometimes be so bad that it would seem like acute inflammation of some organ. She read your advertisement in the newspapers and tried Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She praises it highly as she has been relieved of all these pains by its use.
All mothers should know of this remedy, and all young girls who suffer should try it."

Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

If you know of any young woman who is sick and needs helpful advice, ask her to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lyons, Mass. Only women will receive her letter, and it will be held in strictest confidence.

HARRISON

Merton Kimball Accidentally Shot
Merton Kimball, aged 19, son of Eliott Kimball, was accidentally shot and killed by his cousin, Lawrence Kimball, aged 14, son of Bradford Kimball, while the two were returning from hunting trip early Thursday morning. The weapon with which the shooting was done was a shot gun and the charge struck the youth in the side of the head.

The boys, who live about two miles from the village, were walking along beside the road and were fooling at the time the tragedy occurred. According to the story told by Lawrence. When he had recovered sufficiently from his fright after reaching the home of his parents, he said that he pointed the gun at his cousin, not realizing that it was loaded, and hardly had he raised it to his shoulder when it was discharged.

Merton fell in the roadway, with the blood pouring from the terrible wound in his head and Lawrence, throwing the gun into the bushes started for his home as fast as he could run, to notify his parents. In the meantime Mrs. J. H.
Shoemaker, who lives nearby happened to come along, and seeing the body of young Kimball lying in the road she at first thought it was an intoxicated man. Approaching a little nearer, though, she was horrified to see the wound in the head, and then she hurried to the home of a neighbor, Mrs. Campbell, and notified her.

Within a short time several had gathered at the scene of the shooting and Dr.
E. A. Wight of Bolster's Mills was notified and came as soon as possible. A hasty examination showed that death had been instantaneous, and the town authorities at once sent for Dr. George I. Geer, one of the medical examiners of Cumberland county, who arrived late Thursday night.

The funeral was held at the home of his grandfather, Charles Eames, at South Albany, Saturday afternoon.

The Wagoning Club held their season, Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 11, at "The Lodge," the attractive summer home of Dr. and Mrs.
C. B. Sylvester. Only three members were absent. The rooms were bright with autumn leaves and a cheerful fire in the handsome stove, emphasized the cordiality with which our hostess greeted us. The program consisted of Roll Call: The most interesting book I have read this summer, President's greeting, Mrs. Mercy Gray; Reading, Selections from Robert Frost's poems, Mrs. Mary Sylvester. During the afternoon the hostess served cocoa, sandwiches of different kinds, cake and fruit, the remainder of the afternoon was passed socially. Not the least of the many pleasures was the ride to and from, in the motor car.

Next meeting with Mrs. H. R. Dennison.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pulsifer from the eastern part of the state, are in town visiting relatives and friends.

Mrs. and Mrs. Fred Dickman, with a couple of friends from Allstone, Mass., were calling upon relatives in town Friday and Saturday.

George A. Flint left Monday morning for Portland where he will serve on the judicial circuit for the term of the Superior court.

The moving pictures given on Wednesday evening at the Lakeside Theater by the new manager, Walter P. Dow, were considered some of the best ever shown here. The Old Homestead in a six reel feature was especially fine. Mr. Dow expects to show pictures every Wednesday evening here.

Mrs. Rosanna Hill left Saturday for Naples, where she will visit relatives for several weeks, and later go to Portland for a brief visit.

Mrs. Frederick Baeslack and little daughter have returned to their winter home in Detroit, Mich. Mrs. Baeslack's

Back to the Old Home

Everyone will appreciate the longing to see his old home. That came to James Clark 75 years ago he was born in a little town on the Atlantic seaboard. It took years of hard work and many hard knocks before he was able to retire from a very prosperous Machine & Boiler Manufacturing business at Sydney, Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, and move to Seattle with his family.

The desire to visit the Old Home came suddenly one day and, after looking over various makes of cars, he bought an Oakland Eight as best fitted for so strenuous a trip, equipped it with a complete camping outfit, and his wife, daughter and a friend completed as happy a party of roamers as the sun ever shone on. They made a day's visit at Portland and Spokane, then over the Old Red Trail to Jamestown, South Dakota. Now and then along the way they would "knock on wood" for none of the trouble usual to other cars had happened to their Oakland. They followed the Yellowstone Trail into Minneapolis and south to Chicago, and many a happy laugh they had at the stories Mr. Clark would tell of his boyhood days. The nearer he came to the Old Home the more interesting and funny were his stories. Some of the way it was slow traveling over muddy roads and long stretches of sand or Dekota gumbo, but nothing was able to stop the Oakland and no trouble except a puncture now and then from the careless tack or nail.

What a pleasure it was to introduce the wife and daughter and to visit with old friends. Many of the old landmarks were just as they were when Clark was a boy, but the day came when all the old friends had had their visit and the Oakland Eight turned its silver nose towards the West.

The home trip was made over the Lincoln Highway. In the trip across the country the party covered 5,000 miles. What a wonderful testimony to the automobile when a family may make such a trip and the driver, a man of 75 years, makes the entire trip with less troubles than he would have had at home during the same number of days. Mr. Clark says, "I have just got to brag about that car of mine and the comfortable way we made the trip."

One of these Oakland Eights can be seen at the 42-42

That Rally Day

"Now for a grand rally!" It is refreshing to note the enthusiasm that has been aroused in behalf of the movement for a large attendance at the churches last Sunday.

One can see at a glance that going to church is a material as well as a spiritual benefit.

If you wish to be successful in your employment, in your business, in your profession, there is no better way to attain that end than by going to church. The young man who goes to church has the confidence of his employer. The employer knows that a young man who is a regular church attendant cannot go wrong very far. The beneficial influence of the church is ever present.

It shouldn't be necessary to ask the man who has a growing son or daughter to go to church. Ordinary common sense teaches him that if he wants his children to tread the path of righteousness he'll show them the ordinary man's way in going to church on Sunday. There isn't a Christian father who will ask his boy or girl to stay away from church. He likes to see them at divine service. That boy or girl will do some tall thinking, however, when he or she doesn't see the father in church.

No man is too busy, no man's time so precious, that he cannot afford to spend a small part of one day in seven in the house of God. Don't lie in bed on the Sabbath morn. The church services are not at an early hour. Six days in the week men will rush for the office to be in time for business. That is all right. He should be prompt in his business duties. He should also be prompt in his business with God. It is true that this is a rush age. But the biggest men in the country, the men whose services are worth as much as an hour as the ordinary man's are in a day may be seen for an hour and more every Sabbath in church. These men find time to go to church. They realize the seriousness of their obligation. They are not shirkers. They do not consider it a sign of weakness to be seen in church. They want to be seen there. All honor to these men.

If you are healthy and prosperous, go to church and thank God for His blessings. If you are ill and in want go to church and pray to God that your condition may be improved. And that reminds us how ready some people are to forget God and His blessings when things are coming their way. It is only when misfortune comes that they turn to God and the churches. Then they need God and the consolation that the church affords.

But, while God is merciful, He also is just. If, when people are prosperous and happy, they do not find time to visit the house of God, it is not just that God should pour out His blessings and graces to them when misfortune comes. Don't make the specious plea that you're too busy to go to church.—Sanford News.

WILD RIVER TRAGEDY

Thus: "Three Friends." Charles Freeman of Gilead, Me., murdered his wife, then took his own life on the morning of June 11th, 1851. The following song which was quite familiar to all along the Grand Trunk line at that time, tells its own story. Samuel Worthington, a New York man with a plenty of money of whom Charles Freeman was jealous, unknowingly escaped with his life by going home while the plot was being laid. This poem is contributed by Frank Lang of West Paris, then a boy living near Gilead where the tragedy occurred. The composer is unknown.

Hear the mournful tiding sound,
See the orphans weeping round,
Father, mother, where are they?
In one moment snatched away
From our fond embraces are gone,
Never, never, to return.

Father, we were children three
With our hearts bound up in thee.
How you smiled to see us play
Around your knees from day to day.
Little did our youthful hearts
Think that we so soon must part.

Happy days and years have been,
Fondly you loved another then.
How she sweetly on you smiled,
How for her and us you toiled.
Blissful seasons, happy home,
But a killing frost has come.

Tell us father, why did you
Such a deed of murder do?
Tell us till your latest breath,
Till your eyes are closed in death,
Every dark heart rending woe
You were called to undergo?

"Yes, I'll tell you children dear,
All my grief and sorrow hear,
Why I take away my life,
And with me must die my wife,
Worthily did he longer wait
Would have shared our awful fate.

"In the autumn of last year
Samuel Worthington did appear,
Clothed in smiles and rich array,
Kind and social every way.
His approval I had with joy;
And worked in his employ.

"Like the lark at early dawn
I resumed my work each morn;
Happy with a lovely wife,
Enjoying all the sweets of life.
But by fate I'm doomed to meet Bitterness for every sweet."

"Must I tell my tale of woe,
Worthily intimate did grow
With the only one I love,
Whose vows are registered above.
Willingly my wife complied,
Sweeping all my earthly ties.

"She began with him to ride
Smiled and chatted by his side.
Innocent they thought it was
All the while 'twas killing me.
O, what pangs I did endure
Till suspicious all were sure.

"Down to Bethel Hill they went
At a ball the evening spent;
They returned late in the night,
In the kitchen struck a light.
From my bed I then arose,
To the kitchen window goes.

"Through the casement I could view
Everything they there could do.
How he hugged her to his breast,
On her lips sweet kisses pressed.
Smilingly she did remain,
Kiss and kissing back again.

"Further conduct to prevent.
Wife, said I, 'What can this mean?
Each look and smile is obscene.'
"Clear, you sneaking scamp," she said,
"You are always watching me."

"Jealous frenzy seized on me,
My hand to her throat I drew.
Well, I learned during the day,
In the bed which side he lay,
Through the glass a drill I ran,
Through the pane to point my gun.

"But that gloomy afternoon
Down to Bethel he had gone.
He did not return that day,
For New York he took his way.
Thus, by chance his life did save
From a dark untimely grave.

"Soon a trunk to Bethel came,
On the lid was marked my name.
Latham, (the truckman's name), brought the Trunk to me.
In my hand he placed the key.
When no other one could see
I unlocked the mystery.

"Children's clothing here I found Suited to my children round,
Underneath a letter lay Smugly sealed and hid away.
Soon I broke the seal and read:
Mrs. Freeman, I will wed."

"Come my love, O come away
To New York without delay,
You and children quickly come
I'll provide a splendid home.
You, my lovely bride shall be,
I will live and worship thee."

"Here despair had seized my soul,
Grief and horror filled my bow,
All my hopes did here depart
Blood was curdling round my heart.
Frozen up was every vein,
O, my agony and pain!

"O, my God, I'm left alone
And must stand before thy throne,
Ere tomorrow's sun shall rise
We will meet you in the skies.
I cannot my wife resign,
But must take her life and mine.

"I prepared the deed to do,
When night's mantle o'er was spread
She lay slumbering on her bed.
I approached her in the dead of rest,
Aimed to shoot her in the breast.
"When I fired, I quickly ran, Loaded up again my gun."

"Fired it, myself, I did,
Found myself yet living still.
This is all I here can tell,
Lovely children, farewell!"
Freeman's body soon was found On the Widow Lark's ground.

"What a scene did there appear,
Throat being cut from ear to ear!
Long we looked in sad affright
Viewing such a horrid sight.
Mrs. Freeman yet did live
Her fond husband to forgive."

"What a guilty wretch am I,
Well I now deserve to die.
Worthily, innocent has been,
James ever honest and I have laid the plan.
"O, my brother could you know
All the pangs I undergo,
Laid upon this bed of death
Soon to yield my vital breath,
Mind and body, O, what pain!
All my future hopes are vain."

"You and I have been combined,
You have led my willing mind
From the paths of rectitude,
Now I seal it with my blood.
I must die, but you will live,
James, repent, I will forgive!"

Reminiscences of Otisfield

Dear Editor: My first impulse was to write you a private and confidential letter, but as my remarks will be of more or less public interest, I will proceed by a somewhat critical reference to your sketch of a trip to Casco in last paper under caption "Wayside Notes." I trace you from Norway over former well known roads to where you discovered, in Otisfield, "a few houses, an empty mill pond, a tumbled down sawmill," and venture to surmise that the stream you saw there is the outlet of Moose Pond. Let me correct you? The stream at the site of the wrecked sawmill is the outlet of Saturday Pond and the dam at that place is the same dam, built by Dr. David Ray, one of the earliest pioneers of Otisfield, in or about 1783. His two story dwelling house, built about the same time, stood near the dam for three-fourths of a century and was occupied successively by the families of Dr. Ray, Henry Holden, who married Abigail, youngest daughter of Dr. Ray, and succeeded to ownership of the homestead and other property except the water power and saw and grist mill, located about twenty rods down stream from the dam and receiving their motive power by means of an open flume from the mill pond—now empty. The last family to occupy the old Ray mansion in the Ray line of descent, was that of Moses Spiller, whose wife was Elizabeth Holden, youngest daughter of Henry and Abigail Holden, and successor to the homestead of the Ray-Holden ancestry.

The original Ray mansion was constructed of huge pine timbers and boarded with red oak plank an inch and a half thick at least, perhaps two inches thick—I am not sure, ask Moses, he'll tell you. Frank and Harry Spiller and their sister, Mrs. Nellie Donnell of Falls Church, Va., were all born in the old mansion, I think. The old fortress was torn down in the seventies or eighties and a new, modern mansion erected by Moses Spiller, a little nearer to the mill pond than the old one. The farm and buildings are now owned by a family of Finns. The wrecked sawmill you noted at the dam was one of two sawmills erected and operated at different times by Joseph W. Holden, esq., the eminent Otisfield philosopher and the most strenuous modern opponent—next to the Roman Catholic Church—of the Copernician system of Astronomy. His grave is in the neat, well kept cemetery, opposite the "well-kept church" you noted; but, I'm pretty sure you only peeped casually into that cemetery. Had you gone inside you could not help discovering the conspicuous headstone at the resting place of one of the most original geniuses ever born in the town. His epitaph reads: "Prof. Joseph W. Holden, Born Otisfield, Me., Aug. 24, 1816; d. Mar. 30, 1900. Prof. Holden, the old astronomer, discovered that the earth is flat, stationary and that the sun does move."

The pretty church with the belfry is not in its original form. The first meeting house on that site was wider than the present edifice. It was erected in 1828, the year I was born, and my grandfather, Timothy Fernald, and my father, Otis Fernald, were the builders of the original building. Thomas B. Chambers of Otisfield worked for them as carpenter and boarded with my father—so I have heard mother say. Soon after the close of the Civil War, I think in 1867, the old "Free Meeting House," as it was known, because the pews were owned by both Free Will Baptists and Methodists, was dismantled of its covering, and thoroughly remodelled by bringing its side walls nearer together, and changing the interior plan by abolishing the old high pulpit and altar and turning the pews to face the rear of the room. I was employed to paint the inside of the new church by Benjamin F. Holden, who was master workman of the remodelling improvements.

I am writing this letter on a lap writing board mounted with a clip, constructed from a lower panel of an inside door of the church that was of the same age as myself; in which I attended the public services of the Free Will Baptists and Methodists alternately each Sunday until 1885, when we moved to Foster's Mills. My Sunday school teacher was Mrs. Cordelia Wright, wife of Dea. Eliphalet Wright, who lived where George Knight now lives. My lessons consisted in memorizing the 2nd, 3rd, 4th and 5th chapters of Matthew and the 1st chapter of Luke. I remember we occupied one of the forward pews on the east side of the old church. Elder James Libby of West Poland was the first minister I ever heard preach a sermon, and he was pastor of the Free Will Baptist church for some years after the new first meeting house was completed. Other ministers who officiated regularly in their turn for years, were Elders Gideon Perkins, Austin Wheeler, Darling Huntress, Free Will Baptists, and Rev. Dan Perry, Joseph Lull, Benjamin Foster and some whose names I do not recall, Methodists.

These reminiscences and many others occupy most of my thoughts in this late octogenarian period of my life, and cause me many tender emotions. You remember Burns' poem: "My heart's in the Highlands wherever I go." So it is ever in our longing for the days that never will come back. My reference to the East Otisfield church and its excellent condition of repair and the unusually fine, tasteful condition of the cemetery, will be unworthy of its subject, if I neglect to give due credit to the church women of East Otisfield, who in years past have raised money and contributed their personal services to the object of providing for the interior furnishing of the church, as well as promoting the scheme of the belfry. You know how it is; if it was not for the women, there would not be any church. But they can't vote—not yet; be patient, sisters, 'till next year.

The "Coon Road" is mentioned as the most direct avenue by which to reach Casco and Little Rigby and so onward. The northern end of the Coon Road, Wight's Corner in East Otisfield, the southern terminus being in South Otisfield, very near Casco line. I have never travelled over the Casco road; it is one of the new roads of the town, and a most valuable and serviceable one to the people of many towns. Wight's Corner, next to Holdenville was a very notable point in the ancient topography of the neighborhood. The old road to Oxford (Craigies Mills) discontinued many years ago, diverged from this corner as does the present one which runs through East Otisfield village. In and right near Wight's Corner there settled back in near Revolutionary days Joseph Wight and three sons, Benjamin, Thomas and Nathan. Abigail Wight, only daughter of Joseph, married Enoch Spurr of Spurr's Corner, Otisfield, and was the mother of nine daughters and one son; this family of children being exceptionally historic in the annals of the town and other towns.

Your visit to G. B. Mayberry interested me, as I was acquainted with Griffin in his wee byhood, too young to go to school, though two brothers and two sisters were under my tuition in the Mayberry Hill district school in 1848-9. I could have foretold that G. B. was destined to an active and influential life, for he was a very lively infant, and a dominant factor of the family life back in the forties of the last century. How do, Griffin! Come and see me.

We Must Add $175 to the HUDSON SUPER-SIX

Here is an issue which we can't evade. So we meet it fairly and frankly, but give you a full month's warning. Every Super-Six will be sold at present prices while they last. If you can get one, get it.

The Super-Six of the present series is built from materials contracted last year. There are only 3500 more to go out, including open cars and enclosed. And part of them are sold.

The next production—starting December 1—will be like the present models. The changes, if any, will be only minor refinements. But materials for that series were contracted this year, and at prices enormously advanced.

So the cars now in process are the only Super-Sixes we can deliver at the present Hudson prices. The advance will be $175 per car.

No Way Out

Most people know that Hudson profits are amazingly low for our output. Here is the top-place car—the largest-selling fine car in the world with a price above $1100. Yet it sells way below some fine cars. Still our standards are so high that, despite our big output, profits are very small.

Now these high-grade materials, in one year, have enormously advanced. We must either adopt lower grades of materials, or add the advance to our price.

There is no other way out for fine-car makers whose profits have been fair. This enforced raise means no greater profit to us. So we frankly state the facts.

We shall continue the present-grade Hudson. Next year's models will be the same as this year's; save perhaps in some minor refinements. There will positively be no change in the Super-Six motor. So the added cost—and that alone—will be added to our price.

NORTH BRIDGTON.

A settlement was reached between the parties last week, in the suit of the Gold Ray Realty Company of Medford, Oregon, against Walter S. Brown and Grace P. Brown, formerly of Seattle, Washington, now of North Bridgton, which was entered in the Supreme Judicial Court at Portland at the April term in 1912. This was the oldest case but one on docket. The suit was brought to recover on a note for $2,500 drawn Sept. 23, 1911, by Walter S. Brown, who at that time was engaged in a mining proposition at Oregon, which proved unsuccessful. The case has been entered on the docket "for neither party." Walker and Pike appeared for the defendants.

Maine Apple Crop.

Clyde Wilkins, State Horticulturist, says: The apple crop for the State of Maine this year will be approximately 70% of the normal crop, the yield being especially light in Baldwin and McIntosh varieties like Ben Davis, Harveys, Wealthy, Wolf River, Greenings and Stark which are of poor quality. The reports from the Counties of Somerset, Franklin, Penobscot and Kennebec show a falling off in yield due to so much damp weather causing a poor set of fruit and a heavy June drop. Comparing this year's prospects with the last three years there should be a little better than 300,000 barrels of marketable fruit in the State. There were 600,000 barrels shipped from Maine in 1914 and in 1915 less than 200,000.

A REPLY TO A RECENT ARTICLE

October 16, 1916.

To the Editor of the Norway Advertiser: In a recent issue of your valuable paper, there appeared a report of a sermon in which the Baptist minister endeavored to discredit Christian Science. Unfortunately for him, however, he was laboring under a misapprehension of what Christian Science is, and like Don Quixote who rushed forth to battle with the wind-mill while under the delusion that he was engaging in a real bout at tilts, he has done little damage except to get considerably tumbled about.

I trust I may with propriety ask the privilege of setting the Reverend gentleman upon his feet again, and of showing his hearers and your readers the futility of such a venture upon a subject with which he was apparently not familiar. Christian Science is not a religion, as the minister said it was, and what he arraigned most was not Christian Science at all, or else it will be found that he is opposed to what Christian Scientists believe the Bible plainly teaches. Also, he was betrayed into relating an experience Mrs. Eddy had with a dentist, the purport of which was that she was being absolutely unauthentic. What actually took place is related by Mr. John Fletcher, the dentist whom Mrs. Eddy employed: "Mrs. Eddy did call at my office and have a troublesome tooth extracted, but it was not a carious tooth, neither was it a tooth which the dentist did request me to extract the tooth, allowing me to use my own painless method for extracting teeth which I had recommended."

Christian Scientists generally leave the purely mechanical operation of bone-setting, tooth-extraction, etc., to the dentist, and in that work. From the dentist's statement above, it is evident that Mrs. Eddy deferred to his wish that she would let him use his painless method, and does not imply that she would not have done just as well without it.

Christian Science is founded on the teachings of the Bible. Most people will agree that God is a Spirit. God, Spirit, is the real life and intelligence of man. "In Him we live, and move, and have our being." Acts 17:28. Therefore, when Mrs. Eddy says in Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures, p. 468, "There is no life, truth, intelligence, nor substance in matter. All is infinite Mind and its infinite manifestation, for God is All-in-all," she means just exactly what Jesus meant when he said, "It is the Spirit that quickeneth, the flesh (matter) profiteth nothing." John 6:63. If our critic is not believing that doctrine, Christian Science enables its students to detect evils in themselves and in others, and to destroy evil. But it is not to be supposed that a reality can be destroyed. Evil is error, and errors do not exist in truth, any more than discords exist in the principle of harmony. The way to eliminate discords is to study and practice harmony, just as the way to destroy error is to know and practice the truth. The best detective of the spurious is the one who knows the most about the genuine. One who knows all of the characteristics of good money detects and spurs counterfeiters. The one who does not believe in the reality of evil, is the one who gives evil no place or power in his consciousness, and refuses to be controlled by it. The way to master evil is to let good reign in consciousness as the only power and reality. If everybody should suddenly stop thinking evil, they would become God-like and be "of purer eyes than to behold evil." Hab. 1:13. Can our reverend critic say that such is not the consummation of the Christian's faith and hope?

Our critic errs when he says that "Mrs. Eddy denies the personality of God." On page 116 of Science and Health, she says, "If the term personality, as applied to God, means infinite personality, then God is infinite Person." Neither does Christian Science teach that "God is a principle, even as the principle of mathematics." Mrs. Eddy uses the term Spirit, Love, Truth, Life, Soul, divine Mind, divine Principle, as synonyms for the word God. In the larger dictionaries the primary meaning of the word "principle" is origin, source, cause; that from which anything proceeds; fundamental substances; primordial substance. It has been used by lexicographers in their definitions of Soul or Spirit, as follows: "Soul, the principle of thought and action in man" (Oxford English Dict.); "Spirit, the universal principle imparting life from the Creator" (Hastings' Dict. of the Bible); "Spirit, the principle of life" (Century Dict.); "Spirit, the principle of self-consciousness, self-activity, and of rational power in general; that which signifies a likeness in man to the Divine Being" (New International Dict.). By giving the word Principle a distinctly definite meaning, which is signified by the use of a capital, Mrs. Eddy has done just what John did with the word love, when he says, "God is Love." Principle as thus used means God, and gives a clearer and stronger sense of His unchanging, immutable power and presence than any other word in the English language.

Our critic erroneously affirms that Mrs. Eddy "denies that Christ is the Son of God." One of the tenets of Christian Science is "We acknowledge and adore one supreme and infinite God. We acknowledge His Son, one Christ; the Holy Ghost or divine Comforter; and man in God's image and likeness." Science and Health p. 497. Also, Christ is referred to as the Son of God in more than twenty other passages in the same book.

Mrs. Eddy's book, Science and Health, contains a whole chapter on the subject of "Atonement and Eucharist," and nowhere therein does she "deny" the atonement, the Lord's supper, or the eucharist. What the minister might have said is that Christian Scientists believe in commemorating these events by following Jesus' example in proclaiming the truth of being and in healing sickness and sin, instead of rehearsing dead rites and ceremonies.

The clergyman cites the instance of business men who may have been "up against the wall, discouraged, down and out, so to speak," and who, because he is helped mentally, to get a grip on himself, he gives his whole self to the Christian Science Church." If any clergyman could help a business man out of such troubles, it would not be unreasonable to expect that beneficiary to have considerable respect for an evangelist to the religious helper who lifted him up in the time of dire distress, nor would it be surprising if he joined that Church in order to receive a continuance of such good things, and to help others to receive like blessing.

Christian Scientists sincerely hope that every Church in the land will take up healing the sick by the same means employed by Jesus. At the present time, however, the Christian Science Church is the only one that has had any great degree of success in healing sickness. All manner of sickness, disease and sin have been destroyed by Christian Science practice and teaching, often after every other means had failed to give relief.

It is just as much the duty of every other church to do Jesus' healing works as it is for them to preach. If a clergyman or church turns the sick away from the door without healing them, and the Christian Science Church takes them in and heals them, is it any wonder these people become Christian Scientists? Most Churches fail altogether to heal the sick by prayer, while the Christian Scientist rarely fails to heal or alleviate suffering in any case. Should a minister of the Gospel point the finger of scorn at the occasional failure of others, while he fails to heal at all? And would Jesus and his disciples have defended the use of drugs? No, because they obtained better results without drugs than modern medical practitioners can ever hope to approximate with drugs. When faith in a drug waxes strong, great things are claimed for it; but even then the results are not satisfactory and faith wanes. So it has been with "quinine," referred to as a remedy for "malaria fever." The Christian Scientist has not the least experience in the use of quinine, and is not preventive of malaria fever at all. So it goes on from one drug failure to another without end. Is it not reasonable to conclude that drugs do not act one way or another except as the general faith in them stimulates hope, or engenders fear—hope or fear is the real factor in producing whatever effect is manifested.

Jesus said, "If they drink any deadly thing it shall not hurt them." Mark 16:18. And Paul went unharmed at Melita in spite of the sting of the poisonous viper. Knowing the power of God to protect him Paul had no fear, consequently the poison had no effect whatever.

Jesus was the most scientific healer the world has ever known. He healed "all manner" of sickness, diseases and sins, by the same process, and he never failed. He healed that which accepted and practiced the Master's healing and saving religion both Christian and Scientific? Indeed any other method of practice, of failure to heal as well as to preach, would have been characterized by the apostles as "anti Christ" or "science falsely so-called." 1 John 2:16, 17.

Christian Science repudiates faith in drugs, hypnotism, mental cures which depend upon belief that one human mind can control another. Such practices are of the "earl mind" and are "enmity against God," for "to be carnally minded is death, but to be spiritually minded is life and peace." See Rom. 8. Christian Science depends upon that Mind "which was in Christ" (Phil. 2:5); and those who seek that divine Mind will find that the "Spirit of truth," the "Comforter" is present to heal and save here and now just as Jesus promised. See John 14:16, 17.

God can indeed "heal without a belief in Mrs. Eddy." But if one believes that God can heal, he would be compelled to agree with Mrs. Eddy, because she teaches that God alone can heal. So instead of "letting go of Christian Science" one who believes in the "power of God to heal through prayer" would find it eventually. But if Christian Scientists heal the sick and reform the sinners, while the clergyman turns the sick away, it might be pertinent to ask, Who is the follower not of a religion, but of a theory? The only possible answer would be that those who heal the sick as well as preach the Gospel are practical followers of Christ and his teachings.

Christian Science is the most logical exegesis of Scriptural teaching and demonstration. It is the only religion ever investigated. I am convinced of this after more than a decade of study and practice of its teachings. If a follower of Mrs. Eddy finds "the way, the truth, the life" as contained in the Bible and elucidated in her writings, can it truly be said that one becomes a "follower of one of the most illogical minds in the universe?" If so, there are thousands who are seeking and finding through it, health, happiness, success, and above all, an abiding faith and understanding of Him whom to know aright is "life eternal."

Finally, it is always well for critics first to find out what Christian Science is before they expound it in public. Otherwise, they too, may run the risk of being made to appear rather illogical.

Yours sincerely,
Frank C. Barrett.

Break-Neck Speed of Living Causes Nervous Indigestion; Alarming Prevalent Here

Nervous indigestion, due to the modern break-neck speed of living, has become alarmingly prevalent everywhere.

This statement by the Tanlac health expert has created much comment. He continued:

"I have never seen a time when there seemed to be so many cases of nervous indigestion among men and women in all walks of life. Fully half of those I have met during the last few months were suffering from this complaint.

"The symptoms are extreme irritability, nervousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, and an almost unconquerable restlessness. Everything the victim eats disagrees with him. There are pains in the abdomen and palpitation of the heart. Such cases are usually accompanied by constipation.

"I attribute the prevalence of this trouble to the fast pace at which both men and women are forcing themselves to live. Everybody is engaged in a wild scramble for wealth during this high tide of prosperity. People are driving themselves beyond their strength. They bolt their meals; they work overtime when they should be resting, and in general disregard common sense laws for health living.

"The will power can drive the human machine just so far, but there is a limit where complications set in and the health breaks down all at once, and the victim is miserable and unhappy—just half sick. Life loses all its zest.

"I have had hundreds of people call on me describing just such symptoms. They try Tanlac and in a week or so most of them tell me that it is helping them to get on their feet again. Tanlac was specially designed to relieve conditions resulting from nervous indigestion and kindred complaints everywhere it has been introduced." The Tanlac health expert then cited the case of a prominent Poland man.

"Yes, I suffered with stomach trouble for eight years," said Arthur E. Bernard, East Poland. "I had almost given up hope of getting well. Why it seemed that it was impossible for me to get over my ailments.

"A neighbor told me about Tanlac and I decided to give it a trial. The very first bottle did more for me than anything I ever tried.

"Tanalac is surely a wonderful medicine and I cannot say too much in favor of it."

Tanalac is now being introduced in Norway at Stone's drug store.
